Welcome

This year marks the 25th Barton Arts Festival. The festival predates The Ropewalk as an arts centre and the annual showcase of all artforms in buildings around Barton demonstrated a thirst for the arts locally and helped make The Ropewalk possible. This year, with Gilbert and Sullivan in Bardney Hall grounds, choirs at Trinity Church and The Unthanks and Snake Davis at St Mary's Church, there is a wide variety of work to interest art lovers. As always, The Ropewalk will be supporting the programme and we are looking forward to hosting some of the shows in this milestone year.

This is a milestone year for another reason that we couldn't let pass without celebrating. On June 5 we will be hosting a very long Tea Party along the outside of the building to celebrate the Queen's Platinum Jubilee. There will be tea and as it's The Ropewalk there will of course be large quantities of cake!

Thank you to all the sponsors who have generously given to make our ambition to own a quality digital piano for Ropery Hall a reality. Within just a few weeks we raised £3,500 to buy a Kwai electric Baby Grand with accompanying stool and cover. The wonderful people at Gough and Davy delivered and installed it and we can't wait for the first opportunity to put it through its paces.

We have more great news about sponsorship. James Legal of Hull has agreed to be the main sponsor for this year's Humber to the Wash Open Exhibition. The company will be providing a £500 selectors' prize amongst other awards. Applications forms will be available from The Ropewalk website in April with work being accepted at the end of May. Individuals can enter up to four pieces of work in any media.

So, what are you waiting for? Get creating!

Liz Bennet,
CEO

Featured Jewellers

Since a child Victoria Markham has been collecting stones, shells and unusual fossils and has gone on to create a range of handmade jewellery choosing ethically sourced, hand-cut rare stones such as rare jaspers, dinosaur bone and opals as well as fossils like pyrite ammonites. Victoria is able to melt silver down to create a unique and bespoke pattern to incorporate these rare pieces within.

May: Victoria Markham

Kate Loverly is the designer-maker behind Little Lovers; a distinctive collection of beautiful porcelain jewellery created in Yorkshire. She designs and handmakes each piece and uses natural materials, genuine stones and non-toxic glazes, designs are produced in small batches so collections evolve each season.

Jun: Kate Loverly

Prize-winning master jeweller Sue Gregor has shown her innovative floral recycled plastic jewellery nation-ally and internationally. Making contemporary jewellery with wildflower and leaf designs since 2005 she does not mass produce her work. Every piece is individually handmade using real leaves and flowers to create the designs. All the Perspex Sue uses is 100% recycled

Jul: Sue Gregor

Lawrence Gibson's Koa Jewellery is based near the water's edge in Sully, South Wales and specialises in the design and creation of handcrafted ethical jewellery inspired by the British coast and the ever-changing sea. Lawrence adds colour to each resin which is either dropped into pewter casting or made as a separate piece and incorporated into the design. Each piece is handmade using pewter and coloured resin.

Art of Silk

Yara is a Brazilian artist currently living in England with her husband and pets. Her passion for arts and crafts started when she was really young when she used to go with her mother to painting classes. She would watch the class fascinated by the variety of different styles and skills. She has been painting in silk for over 25 years, and is always eager to learn new techniques, research materials and most importantly, make sure her exclusive wearable pieces of art are of the highest quality.

This workshop will cover the outline technique using 100% pure silk and specialised French dyes. This is a basic course which can be followed up by an intermediate variation with different techniques/projects. A design of your choice will be achieved using the Gutta outline technique (imagine a stained-glass type of style). This workshop is suitable for beginners and the technique will be explained step by step in a very relaxed and fun way. At the end of the day, you will take home a distinctive piece.

Naturally Inspired

Nicky Dillerstone is inspired by natural shapes. When walking along the shoreline she looks for shells, small pieces of wood, and anything that catches her eye. Nicky loves the way the sea shapes the wood – smoothing or creating ridges. She celebrates shells by embellishing them with stitch and beading to highlight their shape. By placing them on plinths their wonderful forms can be admired and celebrated.

Nicky loves to create small artworks that draw the eye in with thread or bead detail making a very personal connection with the viewer, finding some meaning with the detail of stitch, beads, threads, fabrics and found objects.

After an absence of four years The Ropewalk's ever-popular open exhibition returns with a new sponsor. Hull firm of solicitors James Legal has agreed to provide sponsorship and a £500 prize.

CEO Nick Miller, who has also agreed to be a selector, said "I am delighted to be a selector for the Humber to The Wash open art competition. # Comedy

Patrick Monahan: May 27

As usual, our comedy programme will have us laughing all the way through the summer months.

The hilarious Patrick Monahan will bring his show Started at The Bottom, Now I'm Here. In the show, Patrick discusses his changing and colourful life from working class Iranian, Irish, immigrant roots with his family living in a caravan to modern middle-class life living in central London. You might have caught him on TV. If you haven't, where have you been? His many TV appearances include 'The Wright Stuff' (C5), 'Weekend' (ITV), Live Stand-up Set BBC Asian Network', 'Safe word' (ITV2), 'Celebrity Squares' (ITV), 'Fake Reaction' (ITV2), 'The One Show Edinburgh Festival' (BBC1), The One Show (VT Presenter, BBC1). Friends and Patrons, you get 2 for 1 ticket on this show – so, grab them quickly!

Gary Delaney: Jun 11

In June, after a sell-out evening performance, we've added a matinee show at 4pm of Gary Delaney's Gary in Punderland. But be quick, as expected, tickets are selling quickly for his afternoon performance. One of the most sought-after joke writers in the country and longstanding Mock the Week special guest, Gary has been through the laughing glass and he's ready to bring you a brand-new show with hit after hit of the kind of one-liners only a master could craft. If you're hunting for snark, Gary's got it covered!

Theatre

As the summer season approaches we still have some captivating theatre for you to enjoy at Ropery Hall.

Jeremiah: May 4

The first is a raucous, rebellious gig theatre show, Jeremiah, about a forgotten part of British history, The Pentrich Rising, and tells the incredible true story about one of England's forgotten revolutionaries, Jeremiah Brandreth.

Planned in the Derbyshire village it took place on the night of June 9 1817. While much of the planning took place in Pentrich it saw a gathering of some 200 to 300 hundred men (stockingers, quarrymen and iron workers), led by Jeremiah Brandreth ('The Nottingham Captain', an unemployed stockinger), set out from South Wingfield to march to Nottingham. They were lightly armed with pikes, scythes and a few guns, which had been hidden in a quarry in Wingfield Park, and had a set of rather unfocused revolutionary demands, including the wiping out of the National Debt.

The march did not go according to plan and confronted by a small force of soldiers the revolutionaries scattered and it was over a month until Brandreth was captured and stood trial alongside three accomplices, one of whom was transported to Australia. Brandreth and the other two were publicly hanged and beheaded at Nuns Green in front of Friar Gate Gaol in Derby, the last people to be beheaded by an axe (posthumously, after being hanged) in an execution in Britain

Accompanied by a cellist, violinist and guitarist fusing hip hop beats with cinematic orchestration the story is told through the lens of Jeremiah and features Jack Dean - Rap / spoken word, Yoon-ji Kim – Violin, Beatrice Newman – Cello and Hanno Rigger – Guitars.

Incidentally television broadcaster and author Gyles Brandreth can trace his family's link back to Jeremiah.

The following month we welcome the return of actor Rebecca Vaughan who has delighted us so many times in the past with her one-woman performances such as Female Gothic, Austen's Women, I, Elizabeth, Jane Eyre, Orlando, and Christmas Gothic.

In June Rebecca performs her 21st century take on A Room of One's Own, Virginia Woolf's 1928 exploration of the impact of poverty and sexual inequality on intellectual freedom and creativity.

The production – created specifically in response to the changing, uncertain shape of theatre during the pandemic – takes a wry, amusing, and incisive TED (Technology, Entertainment, Design) talk' trip through the history of literature, feminism, and gender, featuring Charlotte Brontë, Jane Austen, Aphra Behn, and even Shakespeare's sister, Judith!

Our final theatre offering before the summer break sees Ropery Hall hosting for Barton Arts Jerome K Jerome's Three Men in a Boat. Following the huge success of Old Herbaceous, Giles Shenton Productions is back with a rip-roaring barrel of fun, with Giles Shenton playing the part of Jerome K Jerome.

Join Jerome as he recounts the hilarious story of his boating holiday along the magnificent River Thames with his two companions and Montmorency the dog. Come and join in the fun as Giles expertly takes the helm and pilots you through the ridiculous tale of men behaving badly while messing about in boats!

Skilfully distilled from Jerome K Jerome's comic masterpiece this is 95 minutes of pure delight

A Room of One's Own: Jun 10

Three Men in a Boat: Jun 28

Music

Old Sea Legs: May 6

After a false start at the beginning of the year gigs at Ropery Hall are back in full swing. We have some interesting evenings ahead leading into the summer with great musicianship at the heart of every show and a definite Irish influence to the programme.

Old Sea Legs is more than just a nom de guerre for Dublin songwriter and performer Ian Bermingham; it is a window into a world entirely of his own creation. Best known for his time as frontman of Dublin quintet 'The Eskies', Bermingham has wasted no time in stepping into new, uncharted waters as a solo performer since the group's sad demise in the latter half of 2019.

Displaying all of the storytelling nous and craft of the quintessential folk troubadour, the melodic ear of a pop pioneer and the lyrical largesse that has become so synonymous with Ian's song-writing, 'Old Sea Legs' sees the Dubliner push himself to new and exciting territories.

The following week Cup O'Joe take to the stage. A progressive bluegrass and folk band founded and based in Northern

Cup O'Joe: May 13

The Sound of The Sirens: May 21

Ireland by three siblings, Tabitha, Benjamin and Reuben Agnew, and later joined by Tabitha's husband David Benedict. Their unique mix of original compositions and re-imagined traditional songs paired with their lively performances has given them a growing presence in the acoustic music scene surrounding Ireland, the United Kingdom, mainland Europe, and beyond.

Later in May The Sound of the Sirens takes you on an emotional journey through reflection, love, loss, disappointment, anger, excitement hope, and many more, with each song purposefully capturing a different emotion. Ending with the words

'a world where we can all together sing' reflecting on the traumas we have all faced over the last couple of years. Sound of the Sirens is a singer-song writing duo based in Exeter, Devon, comprising of Abbe Martin and Hannah Wood. Honing their craft over the past decade, Martin and Wood have cemented themselves as firm favourites not only on the West Country scene, but nationally, and internationally too.

Daphne's Flight return at the end of May with a change to the line-up. Daphne's Flight was created 25 years ago by five of the leading singer songwriters of their generation – Chris While, Julie Matthews, Melanie Harrold, Helen Watson and Christine Collister. Described as one of the most exciting vocal groups to emerge on the acoustic music scene, their energy on stage is matched only by their collective talents. For very personal reasons Christine Collister is unable to join them but Julie, Chris, Helen and Mel are delighted to welcome into the fold Miranda Sykes (Show of Hands) on vocals and double bass, adding yet another exciting new element to the band. Join them on their unmissable return flight to the stage promoting their highly anticipated 3rd studio album, 'On Arrival'. They are, quite simply, a force to be reckoned with.

They continue to inspire audiences with the warmth, energy and sheer joy they bring to their performances that crosses a huge range of topics and genres, blending folk, blues, jazz and pop all woven together with striking harmonies and supported by a range of instrumentation and percussion.

Midnight Skyracer have come a long way in a very short time. Since forming in 2017, the Anglo-Irish all-female quintet have become festival sensations across the UK, Europe and Australasia, toured regularly at home and released a critically-lauded debut album. They also carry the distinction of being the first British act nominated for an award by the International Bluegrass Music Association.

Their all-star line-up boasts Leanne Thorose, with her powerhouse vocals and driving mandolin; the virtuoso banjo playing and delicate vocals of Tabitha Benedict; Eleanor Wilkie and her rock solid bass grooves; the versatile Laura Carrivick, equally adept on both fiddle and dobro; and the lightning guitar playing of Charlotte Carrivick. Not only are they all masters of their respective instruments, but the vocal harmonies shared between the five women are second to none.

With this tour, New Yorker Nell Bryden has gone back to her roots and followed the traditional sonic footsteps of her idols Dusty Springfield, Aretha Franklin and Carole King. Having recorded an album (to tape!) at Ray Davies Konk Studios in London, Nell's songs reference a soon to be released debut novel, for which this music is a companion album. You will of course hear the more well-known songs from this BBC Radio 2 darling, including songs of hers covered by Cher and Susan Boyle. Expect a soulful, heartfelt performance from Nell and her band – a classic artist who is at her most comfortable on the road.

Summer Performances in Baysgarth Park

A celebration of live music and theatre takes place in Barton's Baysgarth Park this summer in the first full programme of Performance in the Park since 2019.

Organised by Barton Tourism Partnership, and supported by Barton Town Council and Barton Lions, these ever popular events are free to the public. All you need to do is bring a chair, a picnic and a friend!

Scunthorpe Concert Band gets the programme underway on Sunday,

June 12, so expect an afternoon of rousing anthems and well-known tunes and that is followed on Sunday, July 17, with another musical performance by Barton Community Band that will perform a selection of familiar music.

There are three live theatre performances in August, the first on August 14 when The Pantaloons theatre company act out H G Wells' classic War of the Worlds in a funny yet faithful new open-air adaptation as they use musical instruments, puppetry and, um, enthusiasm to recreate deadly heat-rays, giant fighting-machines, squidgy tentacled Martians and interplanetary warfare on an epic scale.

The following Sunday Illyria Theatre Company return with its performance of J M Barrie's Peter Pan, adapted by Oliver Gray, that is the first production to feature real flying. Suitable for those aged five years and over re-visit the classic tale of Wendy Darling and her brothers who are whisked away to the magical world of Neverland with the hero of their stories, Peter Pan.

The final Performance takes place on August 28 when Assembleth Theatre perform in the Park for the first time with The Shodysey a very funny 60-minute romp through mythology with much stomping about and clattering of swords. There's carnage, chaos and a huge amount of humour as five Assembleth's populate Greece, Troy and a doorless wooden horse

All performances begin at 2pm in front of Baysgarth House and all performances are free although donations are very welcome.
